Congratulations to our Fall 2019 grant awardees!

New Projects:
- Andrea Mazzariello, Music, From Reflection to Advocacy
- Meredith McCoy, American Studies & History, Indigenous Landscapes: Mapping Memories of Indigenous Chicago
- Michael McNally, Religion, Minnesota Talks Religion: Engaging Religious Diversity in Civic Life
- Tun Myint, Political Science, Archiving Local Myanmar Public Memory in Minnesota
- Susannah Ottaway, History, Presenting on Poverty, Marginality, and Innovation: Engaging Beyond the Academy
- Thabiti Willis, History, Birmingham, The Johannesburg of the South

Continued Projects:
- Mike Flynn, Linguistics, Dakota as a World Language

General Updates

Imagining America 2019
We are excited Carleton will be represented by ten people at the National Gathering hosted by Imagining America. Attending this year are Anita Chikkatur (Ed. Studies), Kelly Conhole (Studio Art), Cecilia Cornejo (CAMS), Laska Jimsen (CAMS), Andrea Mazzariello (Music), Emily Oliver (CCCE), and four students. Imagining America is a national organization that promotes public scholarship and engaged work in the arts and humanities.

Digital Arts and Humanities Minor Approved!
On May 13, 2019, Carleton faculty approved a new minor, Digital Arts and Humanities. As stated on its website, the minor “emphasizes multidisciplinary collaboration and experimentation while encouraging students to both practice and critically reflect on digital creation and interpretation.” Special thanks to the Digital Curriculum Initiatives and Pathways Task Force: Eric Alexander (Computer Science), Sarah Calhoun (Library), Catherine Licata (CAMS), Austin Mason (History), and Celeste Sharpe (Academic Technology).

Upcoming Opportunities

Workshop: Sustaining Publicly Engaged Projects
December 16, 2019 (9-4)
Elizabeth Bucar, Northeastern University
Interested in starting a publicly facing project? Want to connect your research to community partners? Professor Bucar will help faculty think through the life-cycle of such projects and community partnerships, and explore ways that faculty can reach broader audiences with their work.

How to Nurture Community Partners in North Africa and the Middle East
November 2, 2019
Thabiti Willis, History
Facilitated by Sylvia Smith and Richard Duebel of the BBC, this workshop will examine the ways in which the arts and humanities can help build relationships with North African and Middle Eastern community partners.

Next Grant Cycle: February 10, 2020
Can’t wait until February? Apply for Interim Funding!

Grant Awardees

Congratulations to our Fall 2019 grant awardees!

A special thanks to our campus partners:
Center for Community and Civic Engagement, Humanities Center, Broom Fellow, Digital Humanities, & Arts at Carleton