REGISTERING LATE

All full time students who will be studying on campus in a succeeding term will be expected to register for that term within the registration period. Those who do not will be contacted shortly after registration to clarify their intent to attend during the following term. Failure to register by the end of the first two weeks of the term will be regarded as withdrawal from the College. Students returning from off-campus status who have not registered may register during the first two weeks of the term or with the permission of the Academic Standing Committee thereafter.

SOPHOMORE PRIORITY

"Sophomore priority" noted in the schedule means students are allowed to register for the course in the following order: sophomores, first year students, seniors, juniors. A senior or junior wanting to register for such a course must waitlist in the "WL" section and may register for the course during spring term if space is available, however waitlisted sophomores and first year students will have waitlist priority. If you are a junior or senior and need a particular "sophomore priority" course for graduation, PLEASE TALK WITH YOUR ADVISOR NOW.

	BIOL.248.00	Behavioral Ecology	6	OLIN 103 OLIN 103	MW F	09:50AM 11:00AM 09:40AM 10:40AM	Bosacker, Annie
BIOLOGY	Behavioral ecologists strive to understand the complex ways that ecological pressures influence the evolution of behavioral strategies. It can be argued that animals face a relatively small set of basic challenges: they must acquire food, water, and mates, and they must avoid danger. Yet we see a rich diversity of solutions to these problems. Consider foraging behavior, for example. All animals must acquire energy, but some filter particles out of sea water, others graze on nearly inedible grasses, while still others hunt in cooperative packs. In this course we will consider such topics as foraging, communication, sociality, and conflict. By focusing on the functions and evolutionary histories of behaviors, we strive to better understand the puzzle of behavioral diversity. Prerequisites: Biology 125 & 126. MS

	BIOLOGY	Brain dysfunction is a common topic of cinematic presentation, a media form that reaches a broader audience than the newspaper science section or top biomedical research journal. But are such representations accurate? This seminar course will use primary scientific literature to understand the clinical, physiological, and molecular characterizations, including utilization of animal models and current treatment strategies, of common neurodegenerative diseases and neurological disorders such as Alzheimer's disease, Parkinson's disease, schizophrenia, traumatic brain injury, autism, and addiction. In parallel, participants will view mainstream movies depicting such diseases/disorders to determine fact from artistic license. Prerequisites: Biology 125, 126. MS

	The form words take is, in part, governed by complex systems called 'case' and 'agreement'. In general, case refers to forms of nouns and agreement refers to forms of verbs. We go beyond familiar case patterns in which subjects are Nominative and objects are Accusative and familiar agreement patterns in which verbs display the person, gender, and/or number of subjects. We discover that nouns can bear a variety of cases and that agreement comes in many forms. Using syntactic theory, we explore the interaction between how languages construct words and sentences. No familiarity with languages other than English is required. SS, WR

Although what we eat everyday is familiar and biologically intimate, it is also a part of a complex political system. In this course we will learn about and reflect upon the political aspects of food in the U.S. Topics include food history, agribusiness, local food movements, food policy, and social justice. What influences the way we eat? How did ignorance about food become the norm in the U.S.? The course will include guest speakers and possibly field trips. SS
