Carleton faculty and staff have significant interactions with students and can play an important role in making sure that students who experience sexual misconduct are connected to resources through Title IX. Accordingly, Carleton’s Sexual Misconduct Policy requires all faculty and staff who learn of possible policy violations to share that information either directly to the Title IX Coordinator or the Title IX Deputy for Faculty and Staff or through a Community Concern Form.

Carleton Faculty/Staff Title IX Responsibilities:

STEP 1: Care for the student - ensure they are safe and provide non-judgemental support.

STEP 2: Inform the student that you are a responsible party, and that you are required to share any information they tell you with the Title IX Coordinator. Inform the student that they will receive an email from the Title IX Coordinator offering to meet with them in person to provide support and resources. The student can choose whether or not to meet with the Title IX Coordinator and which options (if any) they are interested in pursuing.

STEP 3: Connect the student with support resources (listed in the table below). Offer options and let the student guide the conversation about which resources they are interested in pursuing.

STEP 4: Contact your Title IX Coordinator directly or fill out a Community Concern Form to make the required report. Report what you are told of the incident. Best practices encourage you to report promptly with the information as it was explained/provided to you, and to follow additional directions from your Title IX Coordinator as needed. Reporting should be done regardless if the information comes from the student or not.

Reportable sexual misconduct includes:
- sexual assault
- intimate partner violence
- stalking
- sexual harassment
- sexual exploitation
- sexually inappropriate conduct

If an incident of sexual misconduct or suspected sexual misconduct is shared with you:

STEP 1: Care for the student - ensure they are safe and provide non-judgemental support.
