This is Moly. She thinks it is unfair that we use a mouse all the time and wants cats to be a part of the home office setup!

-Deborah Gross

This is Millie - 4 month old German Shepherd pup!

-Becky Speikers

And this is the usual scene from my home office desk - Bacon and Millie!

Cats, social distancing in my home office.

-Marla Erickson

Cat disappointed that I've eaten all the snacks.

-Marla Erickson

Let me help you--you didn't really need any of these papers, did you?

I have a dog bed in my home office;
but more often than not, Ginger, the boss of the house, is on it.

My dog, Snickers, kept me in good balance between work and health.

She requested daily lunch breaks in the neighborhood. She stood by this lovely chalk art on the sidewalk, done by the kids in our Mankato neighborhood.

Snickers sent her love to Carleton's working force at home or in the office (if you have to!) As she predicted, there will be a light in the dark tunnel of this COVID-19!

-Hsianghui Liu-Spencer

I'm keeping my eye on you, Mom...

-Kim Barnes

You look like you need this toy more than I do.

A small, scruffy dog with grey and white fur is lying on its side on a light-colored carpet. The dog is looking towards the camera. In the foreground, a person's feet wearing blue sneakers are visible. A speech bubble originates from the dog, containing the text: "You're not touching that dumbbell until you give me a tummy rub!". In the background, a dumbbell is partially visible on the carpet.

A small, fluffy black and white dog is lying on a beige carpeted floor. The dog is positioned in front of a computer monitor and keyboard. A speech bubble is overlaid on the image, containing the text: "Before you get on that infernal computer, get me some COFFEE!".

Before you get on that infernal computer, get me some COFFEE!

My coworker is my cat Abitur Moggie
Ferdinand Hall.

-Janean Hall

Abitur Moggie Ferdinand Hall

He is named for the German test given to all high school graduates to determine their future schooling. Moggie is the British term for cats from our recent travels to Great Britain. Ferdinand is for the king of Spain taken from my “Camino de Santiago” last year.

I teach organ and harpsichord for Carleton, and Abitur is my biggest music lover.

-Janean Hall

This is Pope. She's "helping".

-Lin Winton

The new employee is not very productive.

-Steve Nerka

Tomo Kitty - is just hanging on by a thread.

-Kim Devlin

Teddy Bear (Bichon Frise/Shih-Tzu) - he's just SO happy to spend another day working from home with me that he's grinning from ear to ear!

-Kim Devlin

Here are my two new cube mates, Yojo and Raven ... who for some reason insist on sitting beneath the desk rather than beside it.

-Laura Theobald

My new coworker, Polar, is very lazy and not very helpful at all.

-Jacki Smith

My cat is being driven nuts having his humans home full time. Or perhaps it's his cat-bin fever related to the shelter in place order. :)

-Monica Bruckner

Phoebe - She is very playful, good kitty. When she thinks I've been on Zoom for too long, she lays on her favorite bear blanket next to me, looks deep into my eyes, and tells me to come and play:)

-Helena Kaufman

Going for a ride with grandpa!
