The Hyme Loss Award for Global Engagement

Today’s globally interconnected world requires deep and sustained engagement. Carleton offers many opportunities, in- and outside the classroom, on- and off-campus, to advance global learning. The Global Citizenship graduation requirement, which requires coursework and language competence, aims to equip students "to navigate foreign cultures, be conversant in foreign languages, and acquaint themselves with multiple cultures and societies that are different from their own.”

The Hyme Loss Global Engagement Award is given to seniors who demonstrate particular excellence in this area. It recognizes their commitment to language acquisition, cultural immersion, global perspective-taking, and cross-cultural learning. An ePortfolio course seeks to integrate and thus synthesize these experiences in a digital format.

Please visit the Center for Global and Regional Studies (CGRS) website or contact the CGRS Director, David Tompkins at dtompkins@carleton.edu for more information.