SOAN 314. CONTEMPORARY ISSUES IN CRITICAL CRIMINOLOGY

In this course we examine contemporary criminological issues from the critical perspectives offered by sociologists. Our focus is primarily on the United States with topics under examination including: how crime is conventionally defined, measured, and theorized; societal reactions to crime; and punishment of those who are deemed criminal. While exploring these topics, we will consider the impact of race, gender, and social class in shaping individuals’ interactions with the U.S. criminal justice system. In their assignments, students will seek a cross-national comparative understanding of criminal justice approaches. By the end of the course, students will be: better equipped to question popular assumptions about crime; more knowledgeable about how sociologists theorize crime and investigate criminal justice policies and practices; and better skilled at forming evidence-based arguments about crime and criminal justice. Students will also gain expertise using technological programs such as WordPress and Tableau.

Contemporary Issues in Critical Criminology is a course that satisfies several graduation requirements: Social Inquiry, Intercultural Domestic Studies, Writing Rich 2, and Quantitative Reasoning. The course is also tagged as Academic Civic Engagement, Africana Studies, Public Policy, American Studies, and Digital Humanities.

As a SOAN course, students will learn how sociologists ask questions about crime, the data sources sociologists use to study crime, and how to interpret and present sociological research findings. By the end of the course, we hope to achieve the following SOAN “student learning outcomes”:

- Connect information about historical and contemporary socio-cultural phenomena
- Formulate appropriate sociological research questions about socio-cultural phenomena
- Apply sociological theory to analyze socio-cultural phenomena
OFFICE HOURS

I love seeing students during my office hours. A one-on-one visit can clarify course material; provide answers to questions students may have; and assist with understanding, on a deeper level, my expectations for the work students complete in this course.

Please visit this link to schedule an appointment on one of the following days and times:

- Mondays 1:45-2:25pm
- Tuesdays 11am-noon
- Wednesdays 6:15-7:15pm
- Fridays 1:00-2:00pm.

Additional times are available by appointment so please do not hesitate to contact me. I will look forward to hearing from you.

COURSE MATERIAL

The following books are required reading for this class. Links to additional readings are provided on our course Moodle:

READING REQUIREMENTS

To perform well in this course and to create a rewarding class discussion, you must commit to several hours of active, focused reading prior to each class meeting. The readings represent a mix of classic and contemporary works in the field of sociological criminology. Four types of readings are assigned: news articles, reports, journal articles, and scholarly books.
Be aware that course material reveals the ways in which people experience and participate in crime while also introducing students to criminogenic environments. You may find some of the material shocking or personally difficult to read. Please consider this admission a trigger warning.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Your grade in this course will be determined by your performance on several assignments. When completing this work, you are required to abide by Carleton’s standards for academic integrity. Please click on this link to learn more about these standards, particularly as they relate to plagiarism. This course requires you to complete lots of writing and thus, it is essential that you know what plagiarism is and the different forms it can take.

A document titled, “class assignment schedule,” is posted to our course Moodle page. This schedule briefly describes each assignment, its distribution and submission date, and the number of points awarded. I also provide an estimate of the time required to complete each assignment. Please note that a small assignment is due every week of the term.

Finally, 15 points are devoted to class participation. Please review the “grading rubric for class participation” posted to our course Moodle.

MOODLE AND ZOOM

All course readings, recordings, quizzes, documents, assignments, etc., are centrally located on Moodle (either directly or via links contained there). Synchronous classes are held via Zoom, which should be accessed through Moodle. Turning your camera on during class is encouraged. When you must turn your camera off, please upload a photo or avatar as a profile picture. You are welcome to use a virtual background on Zoom if you want to maintain privacy in your virtual workspace while your camera is on. Your microphone should be muted by default, and questions should generally be asked in the chat. In the event that you have difficulties accessing Zoom, please contact ITS. Also be aware that it is necessary update Zoom on a frequent basis.

E-MAIL AND MOBILE DEVICE POLICIES

Please use your Carleton account to send e-mail to me at anierobisz@carleton.edu. You can call me Dr. Nierobisz, Professor Nierobisz, or Annette. I will make every effort to respond to e-mail in a timely manner -- within 24-48 hours on weekdays. If you have not heard back from me within a couple of business days, please feel welcome to resend your message. To facilitate your attention and engagement during our synchronous class meetings, please keep any electronic device not necessary for class participation on silent mode and out of sight.
RECORDING AND DISSEMINATION OF COURSE MATERIAL

The materials developed for this course, including, but not limited to, lecture notes and slides, handout, assignments, and emails are the intellectual property of the course instructor. These materials have been developed for student use only and they are not intended for wider dissemination and/or communication outside of this course. Posting or providing unauthorized audio, video, textual material of lecture content, and emails to third-party websites violates faculty intellectual property rights.

ACCESSIBILITY

Please note that I am striving to make sure that this course is accessible to all students in a variety of living situations and with various abilities. If you have any concerns about or difficulties with course materials or requirements, please let me know as soon as possible so that I can work with you to rectify the situation.
