opportunities to a virtual environment. We’ve adapted our programs, services, and experiential learning opportunities to how we’re happening and how to position all students to effectively explore and pursue their career goals, including in fields such as recruiting, education, K-12 teaching, nonprofits, law, and medicine. Since the global pandemic began, the Career Center has been tracking a variety of trends (e.g., recruiting, hiring practices, internships, unemployment, industry) to understand what is happening and how to help students navigate an uncertain terrain. Since the global pandemic began, the Career Center has been tracking a variety of trends (e.g., recruiting, hiring practices, internships, unemployment, industry) to understand what is happening and how to help students navigate an uncertain terrain.

The world may feel upside down some days, but Carls are finding new pathways to navigate an uncertain world. Since the global pandemic began, we’ve adapted our programs, services, and experiential learning opportunities to how we’re happening and how to position all students to effectively explore and pursue their career goals, including in fields such as recruiting, education, K-12 teaching, nonprofits, law, and medicine.

The survey is open to all members of the Carleton community through November 19. The Career Center is in the process of gathering feedback from the College’s constituencies to help inform an important written profile that will outline Carleton’s key institutional needs and priorities as we look on the left-hand panel, under “Campus Updates.”

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.

The complete text of all messages sent from Dean Livingston to students and families related to COVID-19 is available at https://www.carleton.edu/covid-19/COVID-19%20website.

At the beginning of fall term, we hosted our first “Career Prep Work” that featured online workshops and one-on-one career coaching appointments with career coaches. Nearly 200 opportunities were made available for Carls to complete one-, two-, or three-week externships during winter break. This year, externships are completely virtual, short-term project experiences.